Maximizing Independence and Autonomy

As people age, their ability to navigate their homes, as it was originally designed, can change. In fact, some physical impairments and limitations can make living in the home less safe, or less comfortable. But experience has told us that not everyone's needs are the same.

Custom Plan Development

Our mission is clear: to help you remain in your home safely, independently and comfortably throughout your maturing years. We spend as much time as needed with each client up front to understand his or her unique, individual needs. Only after we fully understand all of the surrounding dynamics do we develop a customized plan designed to help you make affordable modifications to your current home.

“In the past, if someone had difficulty living by themselves, it was a signal that now was the time to move in with family or go to a nursing home. Today, you can live on your own for many years, even as you grow older and start needing help with every day tasks. This is called “aging in place.”
